Tanning Facts

Regular exposure to UV sunlight is not only good for your health - it is absolutely essential. Doctors and scientists are now extremely concerned about the increasing incidence of health problems caused by Vitamin D deficiency as a result of insufficient exposure to UV sunlight.

The immune system depends on an adequate and regular supply of Vitamin D in order to function effectively against the onset of numerous diseases, various cancers and bone disease. Whilst oily fish, milk, various supplements etc. provide some benefit the only efficient source of Vitamin D comes from UV sunlight absorbed by the skin.

It therefore makes absolute sense to regularly and sensibly expose your body to natural UV sunlight however this is not always practical especially from mid September to May. The answer is to visit your local Sun Studio where we offer professional sun bed facilities which provide artificial UV sunlight under responsible supervision.
